- Highlighted in the newsletter as the 2nd story
- Highlighted under relevant categories
- Recommended and highlighted in editorial articles directly from the hair.dk editorial staff
- Read more under advertising

Advertisements in the magazine hair

The magazine Hair is published four times yearly. The format is A4, printed on uncoated paper in good quality. The magazine is printed with an FSC-mark and is 100% CO₂ neutral. The number of pages typically amount to 44–52 pages.

The magazine is presented in a reading friendly design that brings inspiration and knowledge to your target audience. The magazine may also be read in a digital version that is available on hair.dk

In each edition, we start a new editorial theme where we cover a subject in a more in-depth manner.

Below, you can see our coming publications and themes.

Targeted job advertising

The link between your company and the right job candidates hair.dk is the biggest online portal for within the the hairdressing and beauty industry

Create job advertisements on hair.dk

Your advertisement will be seen by people actively applying for jobs as well as the people who didn't think to change jobs – until they saw your advertisement, that is.

- Until the application deadline or 30 days.
- Listed in the job section at hair.dk/jobmarked.
- The job posting can be highlighted on the front page of hair.dk and in the newsletter.
- Job ads are a good branding exercise - which is almost always a good story and occasion to push the company's products, history and corporate brand.

If your company is Partnering with us, you will automatically have unlimited job advertisements at your disposal.

"When you use hair.dk for recruitment, you reach the Arts, Crafts and Design sector in a professional context. The readers are most likely working jobs which means that they finger the pulse."

Claus Aagaard Hansen
Business Manager, Hair

Send your job advertisement

- Should include titles and an application deadline. Best format for advertisement is Word (.docx).
- Should include contact information including workplace address.
- Information regarding invoicing should include the email address of the recipient of the invoice. Always remember the EAN-number if you have this information. In case of special requirements regarding your invoice, remember to include these as well (PO-number, userID, reference number)
- Should include a company logo in JPEG-format, minimum 300px (width). If you have previously advertised a position on hair.dk, or if you don't currently have access to your logo in the required JPEG-format, you do not need to send it. Just tell us your email.

hair.dk production

We help produce the right content – text or podcast.

We assist in idea-generation, ask the right questions, and produce the right content for the article your company wants published. Content that your company owns and may use freely in other relevant contexts.

Types of content that work

Native advertising or content marketing are effective tools regarding value-creation for new and/or existing customers. We have developed common formats that pique our reader's interests.

Interviews and Q&A's

A Q&A is an article that is developed through a question/answer template. The journalist asks the questions, and the company spokesperson answers – per email or phone. The format is suitable if your company wishes to profile itself with an opinion on a certain current topic, or if it wants to convey its own plans and ideas. The question/answer template is very reader-friendly and gives the reader a quick overview.

"We publish the content for you on your company's profile page. It ends up directly on our front page and is also delivered within our newsletter. Vi recommend that you share it via your company's LinkedIn-profile so that you get even more exposure for your money."

Portrait articles

A portrait article centers around a certain person. The occasion for such an article could for example be an anniversary, company purchases, newly staffed positions or other such events. A portrait is written around an interview, typically orbiting the person's career path, garnished with personal characteristics, opinions, and thoughts. The portrait is suitable as a means of delivering an intimate picture of your company's work in sustainability, so that the reader may better identify with it.

Boost your content

If you are a partner, you can boost your content and generate ultimate market relevancy.
