

Forum for Supply Chain Management

Get closer to your customers with SCM.dk's media platform

Effective marketing platform

With SCM you reach those that make the decisions that matter the most within the fields of Supply Chain Management (SCM) and logistics.

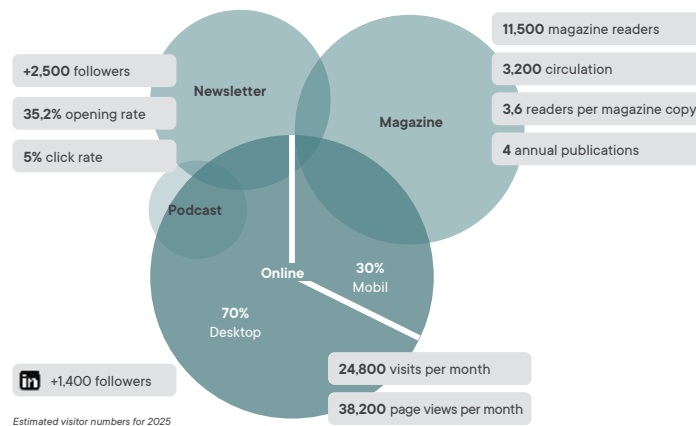

We communicate with supply chain managers, logistics managers, warehouse managers, purchasing managers, and production managers within the areas of transport, warehousing, planning, production, IT, economic management, logistics, SCM, strategic purchases, and traditional purchases across different industries.

SCM.dk's marketing platform consists of an online portal, a newsletter, a podcast, and a magazine.

All prices on this site are VAT excluded.

SCM.dk's target group

The universe consists of a print magazine published 4 times a year, an online portal, two weekly newsletters sent on Tuesday and Friday. In addition, regular themed newsletters are sent where relevant agendas are unfolded. SCM.dk also runs the SCM AGENDA, which is the medium's own podcast.

Create job advertisements on SCM.dk

Your advertisement will be seen by people actively applying for jobs as well as the people who didn't think to change jobs – until they saw your advertisement, that is.

- Until the application deadline or 30 days
- Listed in the job section at www.SCM.dk/jobmarked
- Possibility of highlighting on the front page of SCM.dk
- Possibility of highlighting in the newsletter
- Job ads are a good branding exercise – which is almost always a good story and occasion to push the company's agenda and corporate brand

NB: If the company is a Partner, you automatically get the opportunity to look up unlimited Basic job advertisements.

"When you use SCM.dk for recruitment, you reach the SCM and Logistics sector in a professional context. The readers are most likely working jobs which means that they finger the pulse."

Claus Aagaard Hansen
Business Manager, SCM.dk

Send your job advertisement

- Should include titles and an application deadline. Best format for advertisement is Word (.docx).
- Should include contact information including workplace address.
- Information regarding invoicing should include the email address of the recipient of the invoice. Always remember the EAN-number if you have this information. In case of special requirements regarding your invoice, remember to include these as well (PO-number, userID, reference number)
- Should include a company logo in JPEG-format, minimum 300px (width). If you have previously advertised a position on SCM.dk, or if you don't currently have access to your logo in the required JPEG-format, you do not need to send it. Just tell us your email.

SCM.dk production

We help produce the right content – text or podcast.

We assist in idea-generation, ask the right questions, and produce the right content for the article or podcast your company wants published. Content that your company owns and may use freely in other relevant contexts.

Types of content that work

Native advertising or content marketing are effective tools regarding value-creation for new and/or existing customers. We have developed common formats that pique our reader's interests.

Interviews and Q&A's

A Q&A is an article that is developed through a question/answer template. The journalist asks the questions, and the company spokesperson answers – per email or phone. The format is suitable if your company wishes to profile itself with an opinion on a certain current topic, or if it wants to convey its own plans and ideas. The question/answer template is very reader-friendly and gives the reader a quick overview.

"We publish the content for you on your company's profile page. It ends up directly on our front page and is also delivered within our newsletter. Vi recommend that you share it via your company's LinkedIn-profile so that you get even more exposure for your money."

Cases

A case typically takes its starting point in concrete task that your company has solved. It centers around the achieved result, but also the difficulties related to the problem-solving and the means by which your company achieved its goal. The case format is suitable as inspiration for those of your customers who might have experienced the same difficulties in the past.

Portrait articles

A portrait article centers around a certain person. The occasion for such an article could for example be an anniversary, company purchases, newly staffed positions or other such events. A portrait is written around an interview, typically orbiting the person's career path, garnished with personal characteristics, opinions, and thoughts. The portrait is suitable as a means of delivering an intimate picture of your company's work in sustainability, so that the reader may better identify with it.

Podcast

For Partners, a podcast needs to be a mouthpiece and a platform where a message, a strategy, an initiative, or a case, can be explored more thoroughly and in-depth than what is possible in writing, while backing it up with concrete examples of, for example, how a given SCM-strategy or project is brought into the world. We handle everything surrounding production.

We are happy to help. Give us a call on 5350 6060 and we can talk about the scope of your needs and then we can give you a good price.

Boost your content

If you are a partner, you can boost your content and generate ultimate market relevancy.

Purchasing highlighted content guarantees high visibility for seven days

- As the 2nd story on the front page of SCM.dk
- Highlighted in two newsletters as the 2nd story
- Highlighted under relevant categories
- Recommended and highlighted in editorial articles directly from the SCM.dk editorial staff
