designbase.dk production

We help produce the right content – text or podcast.

We assist in idea-generation, ask the right questions, and produce the right content for the article or podcast your company wants published. Content that your company owns and may use freely in other relevant contexts.

Types of content that work

Native advertising or content marketing are effective tools regarding value-creation for new and/or existing customers. We have developed common formats that pique our reader's interests.

News articles

A short and effective way of bringing your company into the spotlight. Have you launched a new product or collection? Given or received an award? designbase.dk can tell your story concisely and effectively, so that it is ready for publication – on our platform as well as others. Designbase.dk will tell your story shortly and effectively, making it ready for publication – on our platforms as well as others.

Prices range from: DKK 4.500,-

Interviews and Q&A's

A Q&A is an article that is developed through a question/answer template. The journalist asks the questions, and the company spokesperson answers – per email or phone. The format is suitable if your company wishes to profile itself with an opinion on a certain current topic, or if it wants to convey its own plans and ideas. The question/answer template is very reader-friendly and gives the reader a quick overview.

Prices range from: DKK 5.500

"We publish the content for you on your company's profile page. It ends up directly on our front page and is also delivered within our newsletter. We recommend that you share it via your company's LinkedIn-profile so that you get even more exposure for your money."

Portrait articles

A portrait article centers around a certain person. The occasion for such an article could for example be an anniversary, company purchases, newly staffed positions or other such events. A portrait is written around an interview, typically orbiting the person's career path, garnished with personal characteristics, opinions, and thoughts. The portrait is suitable as a means of delivering an intimate picture of your company's work in sustainability, so that the reader may better identify with it.
